

OF DILDOING YOUR MAN

By Janet Beckwith

Hello, I'm Jan Beckwith...

If you want to know the purpose of this publication, the title says it all. I intended it for two types of people.

The man who would like to be dildoeed, but wants to make sure his wife, girlfriend or professional dominant know what she's doing, and the woman, be she any of the three above, who is going to dildo a man and would like to know how.

This publication is not based on any medical study or survey of how other women dildo men. It is strictly based on my own experiences and my relative success at the practice. I consider myself successful because I dildo many of the same men on a regular basis and they seem to enjoy it each time. Fear it perhaps, but eventually always enjoying it.

Rule#1 Encourage the man to enjoy it.

What is a dildo? It's a replica of the male penis, correct?

So If a male wants a woman to strap on a replica penis and fuck him in the ass with it, that must mean he has homosexual tendencies and must want to be fucked by a man? Right? Wrong. In most cases this isn't at all true. Many men like the idea of playing the female role but only with a woman. You can suggest "repressed desires" but knowing what I know I'm convinced latent homosexuality is not the case with most men wanting to be dildoeed by a woman.

On the other hand, there are men who wouldn't normally enter into a homosexual relationship yet submit to anal intercourse by another male, but just to please a woman. This type is rather common.

In any event, most males, for some reason feel extremely ashamed of showing enjoyment at being dildoeed. If you can get the male to the point where he can openly show enjoyment, this feeling will transfer to his body and he'll "really come to life." They're always very embarrassed afterwards that they showed such pleasure but who cares then? In fact a little pre and post dildo humiliation is good for them.

So...make the man show some enjoyment and once he does he won't be able to stop till he comes.

Pardon me if I get off the subject but I just thought of something funny. I wondered, when I decided to publish this manual, whether anyone would find it obscene? I studied the obscenity laws and found them very confusing and abstract, but I did note one standard qualification to rule an item not obscene and that is that it have redeeming value.

This is of course rather abstract because then you have to decide what is redeeming, but generally accepting anything that benefits mankind as being "redeeming," I think this publication qualifies. AIDs is the worst thing to hit America since? Many cases of AIDs are transmitted through anal intercourse. AIDs can't be transmitted through dildo intercourse if normal sanitary conditions are met. If this publication increases female diloing of the male and decreases males doing it with other males, it's certainly a way to prevent AIDs. And I think a lot of men would rather have a woman do it anyhow.

THE DILDO

Who cares about the history of the damned thing or who used it during the Estrucian period. We're worried about now. Let's take first things first then.

Where do you obtain one?

Well, if you're reading this you didn't pick it up at your dentist's office so you're off to a good start.

The place you bought the magazine that offers this publication probably has them. You've probably looked furtively at them but been afraid to actually take one up to the counter and buy it, right? Don't be. If there's one thing these adult bookshop clerks have an ability to do, it's to act totally disinterested at what a customer chooses to purchase. They're good at it...and it's probably because they aren't interested, so look the dildos over, select what you want - and buy it.

But let's suppose you bought the magazine by mail order and have no idea where a sex shop is in Newport, Vermont. What do you do then? Simple. Buy any man's magazine, (the naughty kind - not Popular Science) and you'll be inundated with ads for rubber products, sex toys, marital aids and the like. They'll be glad to send you catalogs describing their products.

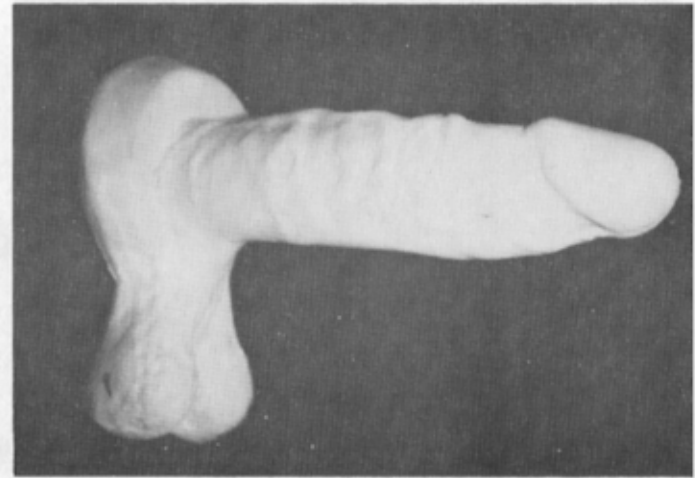

Which and what you buy to hold it "in the proper position" is a matter of choice. I've used commercial models, which are basically a strap affair with a hole in front to fit a dildo through. They work alright but I prefer something more secure to my body so I designed my own which works very well. Other women have even used my idea to make their own dildos and one of them, Joanne Jameson, demonstrates my "invention" in these photos.

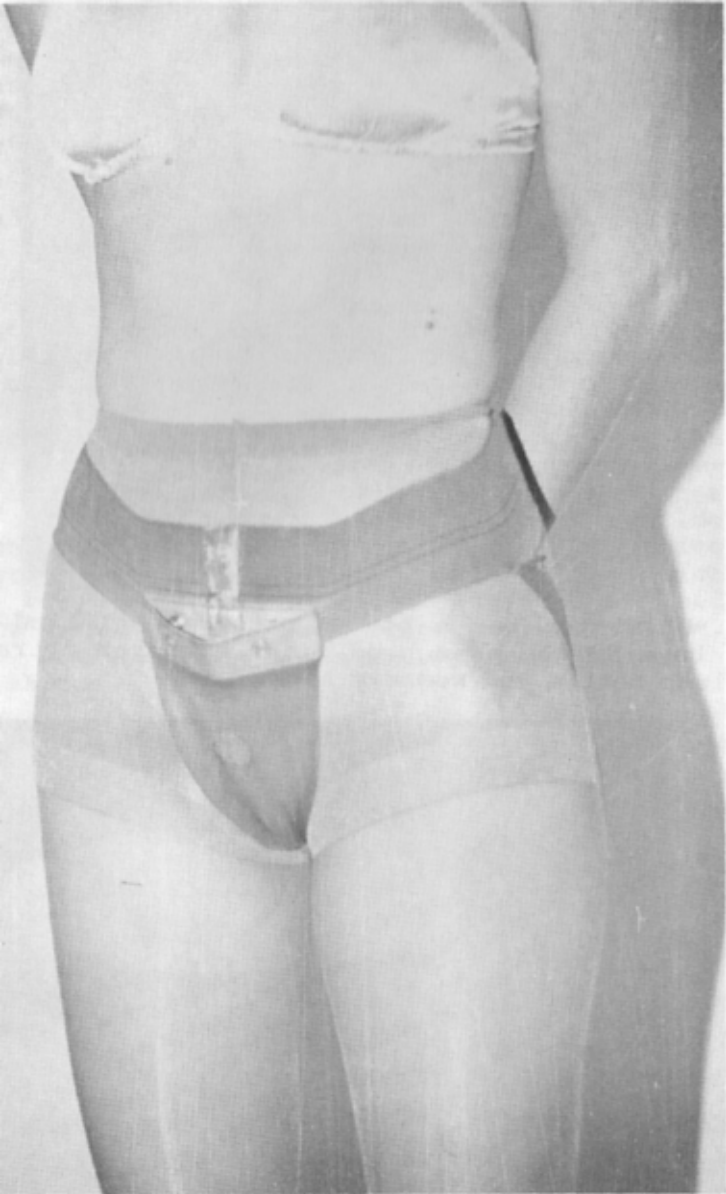

ATHLETIC SUPPORTER with PROTECTIVE CUP

First you buy a boy's jockstrap. I find that a boys large has a good tight fit over my rather plump bottom and womanly hips.

You'll need a solid rubber dildo similar to this. These are sold in most sex shops and mail order catalogs.

You simply put it on like this...

Slip the dildo in the pouch and through a previously cut hole.

And Voila! You're ready to go.

How you lead up to the actual act is pretty much up to you. I'll tell you later how to physically do it, but the lead up technique and need vary.

One man I dildo is Hal. That's not his real name, of course. Hal is an oil executive in his early fifties but he has the slim, muscular

...y of a 30 year old. He likes me to give him a good thrashing with a riding whip and then dild0 him.

Hal has a very important position with a lot of responsibility so he needs these sessions as a "release." from his all this. But, like every businessman I've ever known, they only come to me when they've got a lot to talk about. When Hal shows up at my apartment I answer the door wearing a long shimmering robe with black nylons and high heels underneath. Sticking through the slit in the robe is my "cock", nice and hard and waiting for his little virgin ass.

I make Hal get undressed and then we sit in my livingroom and relax. We have some drinks and I listen as he talks and unwinds. My "cock" is always visible to him though, as is the black riding whip on top of the bar - and he knows he's not going to spend the night without taking both.

A few hours later Hal is ready to go to my bedroom with me. I pick up my whip as we leave the room.

I whip Hal very soundly, making him bend over and take the doses as I give them. I give him breaks, but before the whipping is over I make sure he'll carry my welts for at least a month.

When he's still whimpering from the whipping I take him over to the bed, rub his bottom and make him get it up in the air. I stroke his cock and gently fondle his balls. I run my hand up the crack of his ass and tease his little puckered up ass hole. Then I seriously start to get him ready for the dildo.

I slip a rubber finger extension over my finger (see photo) and lube it well with KY jelly. Then I gently and slowly work it into Hal's ass. I use this on him until I'm sure he's comfortable with it. After that I use a small butt plug
