<ul style="list-style-type: none">• An eye for an eye...• Capital punishment acts as a deterrent / makes people think twice before committing a crime...• When people lose a loved one, there's a natural desire for revenge...• Vulnerable people are thus protected...• Society must protect itself...• Shocking crimes such as murders, rapes, child molesting, serial killings and terrorism should be severely punished...	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Those in favour of capital punishment are motivated by revenge and retaliation...• A barbaric attitude / Barbaric practices unworthy of human beings...• Statistics prove that capital punishment doesn't act as a deterrent / it is a totally unacceptable argument. For instance, crime hasn't increased in GB since the suspension of capital punishment...• Life imprisonment is worse than death...• Capital punishment does not solve problems. The solution lies elsewhere. Crime can be drastically reduced by the elimination of social injustice (poverty, slums, unemployment...). Most crimes are committed for social or economic reasons. Delinquency cannot be cured by stricter sentences. Some delinquents need direct help in their lives at school, at work and in the family. Adequate social infrastructures should be set up to assist people in dire straits...
